THE SUPERINTENDENT

Mr. J. R. McDonald who has filled the office of superintendent during the past year has, in the face of many difficulties, proved himself to be a genial, co-operative administrator. His keen interest in the welfare of student activities has won for him a host of friends among the student body.

THE DEANS

We have learned that association with our deans is pleasant. All of them have a deep understanding of human nature and are adept in handling difficult situations. Using psychology is an art with them, and their years of service have given them a chance to use it. Get to know your deans!

DEANS

Miss E. M. Prutsman

Mr. D. W. Burford.

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION

Behind the scenes of the students' school life are five figures who hold the strings to the administration of the high school. These figures, the men who make up the Board of Education of Morton High School, are a group of which the average student hears little, but which is, nevertheless, ever active in its welfare.

The responsibility of supervising the operations of a plant the size of Morton with its six thousand students and its two hundred and fifty instructors is an important one, and one which can be entrusted only to experienced, public spirited men with a sincerity of purpose for the welfare of the school and the youth which it serves. The board, which is elected by the citizens of the school district, is charged with the responsibility of appropriating funds for the maintainence of the school's physical plant and the administration of its educational activities.

The current year has seen some definite improvements made in the school building. Through economies effected in the past few years, and through federal aid, the board was able to launch the projects of a completely new electrical wiring and lighting system and to install new boilers for the heating plant. These improvements, long needed, have already proved to be a sound and valuable investment.

To retiring members of the board, Mr. Mrizek and Mr. Vlk, are due our expressions of gratitude for the sincere efforts which they have put forth in the interests of Morton. To Mr. Hoffman and Mr. Nowak, congratulations upon their election to these offices of public trust. Through the leadership of its board, Morton will continue to progress.

MESSRS. G. PETRU, J. MRIZEK, J. CERNY, A. LIK, R. NOVY.

Dear Elnora,

Wive been pals for a long, long, time, and I just hate to think of having to break up. These four years wive been together have been so short. Remember all the swell times wive had together and forget the bad (although there hasn't been very many bad ones.) I hope that someday in the very near future will be seeing each other again and that we will be swell friends again.

Love to the cutest girl I know from your loving pal
forever.
Mary Priscilla Roberts.

P. S. I'll never have as good as pal as you was no matter where I go.

THE M. S. G. A.

The Morton Student Government Association is divided into three main groups: the assembly, which consists of a representative from each advisory class; the board of directors, consisting of six seniors, six juniors, four sophomores, and four freshmen, all elected by the assembly. The four class presidents added to this number complete the board, and the court of justices which is elected by the board.

The Board of Directors is the executive body of the M. S. G. A. This board together with three faculty advisors meets twice a week to discuss various business problems of the association.

The Court of Justice consists of three members and two faculty advisors who are also elected by the board. Sessions are held weekly to pass on various charges submitted, and punishment is given according to the seriousness of the violation.

The assembly is the contact body between the students and the M. S. G. A. Board. It secures information for the students.

Assemblies, socials, and other events have been arranged through the different committees of the M. S. G. A. But these projects have not only improved our school; they have helped to produce leaders who shall not back down when confronted by hard tasks after they leave J. S. M. The student body gains experience in picking capable people. Student government is a miniature of the government of our country, and in this way a student is prepared for duties as a good citizen. Student government gives students just such responsibilities as they will meet with in later life, and it prepares them for these duties.

The administration has invested rather broad powers in the M. S. G. A. The hall and cafeteria monitor systems function under the M. S. G. A. control. Clubs are organized only with the consent of the Board of Directors. M. S. G. A. elegibility rules maintain scholastic standards. All assemblies and social functions must be sanctioned by the Board, and their assistance is offered in the carrying out of these functions.

It's been swell knowing such a sweet and pretty girl. Keep up the good work you've been doing. All life's success and happiness to you!
Mildred Klepal

THE COURT

This year above all years the M. S. G. A. has worked to bring about a better democratic class government. The main topic for discussion was the class cabinet plan, which provided for a cabinet of seven in the freshman and sophomore classes and a cabinet of nine for the junior and senior classes. The methods of nominating candidates have also been revised.

Another feature of this year's student government was the first night party of Morton's career—The Yuletide Frolic. This Christmas party was a huge success, and it is certain that they have established a custom.

The welfare committee under the direction of Miss Austin brought happiness to many a family in Cicero, Berwyn, Lyons, and Stickney. This happiness was brought about by the contributions received at the committee's annual Serpentine Swing, Old Clothes Assembly, Faculty-Varsity basketball game, and the White Elephant Auction.

Morton's school spirit was at its highest this year which may partly be accredited to the M. S. G. A. Athletic and Booster Committee and partly to successful seasons.

The M. S. G. A. has had a very successful year which has made a long life certain.

The motion is accepted

All those in favor signify by raising the right palm.

Will the meeting please come to order.

He's up again!

COMMITTEES

THE ELIGIBILITY COMMITTEE enforces the rules and regulations formulated by the M. S. G. A. board of directors. It keeps an accurate check on office holders to see that they measure up to the minimum requirements.

THE CLUB COMMITTEE issues club charters and keeps a record of all clubs for information purposes. A charter grants certain privileges hitherto prohibited, such as meeting place and social functions.

THE HALL AND DINING ROOM COMMITTEE enforces the rules and regulations governing traffic and order in the halls, in the dining room, and on the stairways and supervises a complete monitor system.

THE ASSEMBLY COMMITTEE works with the faculty assembly chairman in the planning and supervising of all school assemblies. This year it has worked hard for the betterment of conduct at assemblies.

THE PUBLICITY COMMITTEE has charge of the official M. S. G. A. bulletin boards including the main board on the third floor and also regulates the posting of notices and posters throughout the building.

THE BUILDING AND GROUNDS COMMITTEE drafts recommendations for the improvement or upkeep of school property. It also allots space to various departments for exhibits in the case located on the third floor.

THE ATHLETIC AND BOOSTER COMMITTEE promotes schemes for the fostering of school spirit through campaigns of clean up, courtesy, and support of athletic teams. It also assists the athletic department.

THE SOCIAL COMMITTEE accepts requisitions from organizations for social functions, makes the necessary arrangements, and secures the approval for the event. In this way the committee keeps a calendar of social functions.

THE WELFARE COMMITTEE cooperates in all ventures for raising of charity funds. It supervises the annual Serpentine Swing hereby enabling an extensive welfare campaign to be carried on.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

For the first time in Morton's history, a major football game has been accompanied by a type of festivity which has long been common and popular upon many a college campus. Three thousand Mortonites cheering their team on to battle, interclass tug of wars, a huge bonfire, snake dances, and other accompanying festivities—MORTON HOMECOMING!!! The credit for this event goes to the members of the Alumni Association. This organization certainly deserves a tribute for the persistent efforts of its members to raise and maintain a new high in school spirit.

The Alumni Association not only served the student body in this manner but also showed the bond between its members by the "great" time had at the Alumni Banquet.

The Alumni members make up a group which shall exist for years to come.

THE MORTONIAN WEEKLY

"The largest high school circulation in the United States," is the boast of the 1938-39 Mortonian Weekly.

Huge stacks of papers can be seen piled up on desks in the "J" office every Friday, ready for delivery to English classes.

This semester the staff lineup has been increased to improve the efficiency of the organization. New editors take care of feature writing, photography, girls' sports, copy reading, and sending of exchanges.

The entire week is a full one for the journalists. One day we see them reading copy, another day writing headlines, reading galley or page proof, still another day they read press proof. Fridays they are busy distributing papers and starting on their next week's publication.

The aim of all reporters and editors is election to the Quill and Scroll, an honorary society for journalists maintaining specified standards for membership. They work together to achieve this aim.

March 30 and April 21 were dates whose approach sent shivers down the backs of some of the Annual staff members. Procrastination had been their companion for too long, and now everyone would suffer. March 30 was the deadline for all photographic copy. This, of course, meant that demands on the photography staff would be doubly heavy. April 21 was the final deadline. On that day the book went to the printers, allowing everyone to breath freely for a short time. When proof started to come back, there were all those thousands of words of copy, which we had written, to be read.

But that is just the work and hard part of it. The time spent working on this year's book was time which none of us would sell for any price. During this time we met people and learned things we had never known before. —Famous last words, "It was worth it."

QUILL AND SCROLL

Anxiety and impatience are displayed by all high school journalists when the time comes for announcing Quill and Scroll pledges: impatience as to whether or not election to the society will be achieved, and anxiety as to who shall be "boss" if membership is attained.

President Bordenave instructs the pledges.

Membership in this organization is very select. To qualify one must be a junior, senior, or post-graduate; he must be in the upper third of his class in general scholastic standing; superior work in writing, editing, art, or the business management of a school newspaper or annual must be accredited to him; recommendation by either Miss Gaarder or Mr. Hessler, the advisors of the Morton chapter, is necessary; and after achieving all this, he must have the approval of the national secretary. Having been accepted for membership, each "pledge" is assigned to a sponsor who is already a member of the society. During the probation period, the sponsor is top man. Often a sponsor will demand the impossible. A favorite request is for a snowball in April or May. Some sponsors, tending to be practical, obtain some part of their lunch free every day during this period of "sponsor supremacy."

After surviving pledge duty and initiation, the lowly pledge is placed on equal terms with the other members; and he awaits his turn to be a sponsor.

THE MORTON CONCERT BAND

The history of the Morton Concert Band covers a period of about twenty years. Only a decade ago, the entire music department was housed in a little "2x4" room above the High School library; since then it has grown to deserve the well equipped suite of rooms that it now occupies. The band has progressed by leaps and bounds through the contests into national prominence; it has placed first in eight District and eight State contests and has held the National Championship title for six consecutive years.

A membership of one hundred and twenty players is maintained, and these represent the best musicians in the entire school district; for a preliminary training of at least three years is required for entrance.

The activities of the band with its numerous ensembles and soloists play important parts in school and community life, and its methods of organization and growth have become topics of clinic discussions during important state and national conventions.

Thus after ten years of effort, the band has become a source of inspiration to other schools. Morton has a right to be proud of its Concert Band.

THE MORTON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

If you were to arrange the organizations at Morton in the order of their activity, the Morton Orchestra would be right at the top. Besides the fact that it is a two period subject, the Orchestra has provided music for many of the school programs such as the P. T. A., Mikado, Ballet, Senior Play, Commencement, and assemblies. In addition, it has presented two public concerts and participated in the high school orchestra contests.

The first concert, held on January 29, featured George Makas, the concert-master, as soloist. In the district solo contest at Proviso, Morton came home with seven out of ten winners. These seven vied for state honors at LaSalle on April 15. The following day the state winners were the soloists at the Orchestra's second concert.

This year the Orchestra had the largest membership yet, eighty-five, and was musically best according to its very worthy conductor, Mr. Haberman. As a unit it played at Proviso in the district contest. The winners earned the right to play in the state contest at LaSalle. Those orchestras which passed the test at LaSalle sought national regional honors at Indianapolis, Indiana.

DANCE ORCHESTRA

The Dance Orchestra is an organization that has rendered very noticeable service to the school. Under the direction of Mr. Lundgren, it has poured forth rhythmic melodies at Jr.-Sr. Socials, Parties, the M Club Hop, Serpentine Swing, and assemblies. It has also introduced the novel idea (for which it earned many creditable remarks) of playing between halves at basketball games.

THE VOCAL DEPARTMENT

This year Morton's Vocalists have presented two outstanding programs. The entire department, comprising two choruses, two glee clubs, and the Aeolian choir, participated in the first. It was a colorful Christmas pageant entitled, "A Story of Christmas Night." The continuity, direction of action, and music was arranged by Mr. C. K. Nicholas. The participants themselves provided the costumes, and the choir sang the incidental music back-stage.

On April 30 a concert was presented by the Choir, Boy's Glee Club, and the Girl's Glee Club. The feature of the program was the Choir's rendition of Frank J. Smith's, "An Act of Up to Date Opera."

MORTON DRAMATIC ASSOCIATION

The Frosh, Soph, and Jr.-Sr. groups comprise the Morton Dramatic Association which is well headed by Miss Coggeshall. Although the meetings of the groups are conducted like classes, the work done is extra-curricular. Anyone who likes dramatics only from the standpoint of watching is always welcome, and no one is forced to say anything. This is a very unique set-up for a school of this kind but one which rightfully holds its place.

If the love of drama does not spur one on to action, the dramatic insignia does. The insignia is entirely new this year and may be obtained for debate and oratory also. Points are obtained for each "class" attended, for participating in plays, for costuming, and stage work.

During the year each group is given a chance to give a play or to collaborate with another group in presenting a play. Dorothy Omernik and Irene Krenek starred for the juniors in "At the Sign of the Boars Head." In this play all excitement took place in the tavern for which the play is named. The sophomores were well lead in "The Fifteenth Candle" by Dominic Nilo and Cordelia Rentschler. Beauty is the word that best describes "Tidings of Joy" on which the Freshmen and Seniors collaborated at Christmas time giving the leads to Carol Crambert and George Hejna. Probably the most successful play of the season was "Rich Man, Poor Man" whose main characters were portrayed by Jane Fijal and James Piasecki five times.

We back seat sisters sure look beautiful ???

Each of these girls is a very promising student. A pretty one too.

The annual speech banquet sponsored by the Morton Dramatic Association was presented on February 21. At this time all students and teachers connected with any type of speech work were invited to get together socially. Each speech class and club was represented. Miss Grace Hall of the Northwestern University School of Speech was the special guest of the evening. She gave several "Distressing Dialogues" by Edna St. Vincent Millay which were enjoyed by all.

After a season, successful both socially and academically, the Morton Dramatic Association took the back of the stage while Miss Coggeshall gave most of her time and attention to the senior play which has been acclaimed one of the best ever presented in Morton. The Thespian awards, which are eagerly awaited by all drama students, make a fitting end for a year of drama when they are presented in May. During the remainder of the year dramatic activity centers upon the making of plans for the following year.

SENIOR PLAY

Amidst an air of formality, which has become a traditional part of the Senior Class Play, the long anticipated night arrived. The presentation of "Anne of Green Gables" brought to a close three months of diligent practice by the cast under the experienced direction of Miss Coggeshall.

So great was the appeal of Anne Shirley and her supporters, that the emotions of the audience were visibly influenced by the changing events. Joy, sorrow, hatred, and contempt were all displayed.

As a fitting climax Jane Fijal, who played the title role, was awarded the Carnes Cup for her excellent voice and diction; and Miss Coggeshall received the flowers presented by the cast as indicative of their appreciation.

SPEECH ACTIVITIES

Variety is the spice of life and the keynote of Morton speech activities. Included in the speech classes, organized for juniors, are drama, oratory, debate, and the fundamentals of speech. The Oratory, Debate, Dramatic, and Reading clubs form the basis of the extra-curricular activities but are, by no means, the complete program.

To start the year, Milan Swasko won the American Legion Cup in the annual Armistice Day speech contest.

In December everyone was given a chance to show what he could do in an intra-mural speech contest. The tournament was organized in sections which included dramatic reading, poetry reading, oratorical declamation, original oratory, and extemporaneous speaking.

"Debaters Shine in Tournament"; "Morton Debaters Rank Near Top in Tourney": these are good samples of the headlines after the Morton debaters were at work both at home and abroad. Defending Morton all year were Charles Nelson and Phil Carter in the affirmative, while Joe Praser and Jerry Palecek were Morton's negative debaters.

In January, Morton, along with LaGrange, Dundee, and Palatine, was the guest of the Maine Township High School at a speech festival in which Morton made quite a showing. Oratorical and dramatic declamation, poetry, and humorous readings were included. After the contest part of the festival, each school presented some type of speech work uncommon to most schools. The Reading Club represented Morton in this division.

On April 22, distinction was again Mortons; for it was then that the Chicago district of the Illinois High School Speech League held its annual tournament here. Never before had the contests been held in a high school. The winners in these verbal duels earned the right to journey to Urbana for the state contest.

ORATORY AND DEBATE CLUBS

"They all laughed when I got up to speak—they didn't know I was a member of the Oratory and Debate Club." Pardon the pun, but it seemed quite appropriate for a galaxy of potential after-dinner speakers. Seriously, though, we must admit the orators and debaters have talked themselves into prominence. The National Forensic League has patted them on the back for their good work. Their ranking in Illinois hovers near the top for debate honors. Why, even one of the members modestly admitted, "We are always a threat in any competition."

The quickening pace of life even affects debating. Now they're using streamlined debate. They do not talk faster or use simpler words, but have three men on a debate team. More participation is possible this way, and it provides valuable training for the younger members.

After becoming a member, higher degrees of success may be achieved under the guidance of Miss Todd and Mr. Cherry. The highest degree, which Milan Swasko and Phil Carter have attained, requires one hundred credit points.

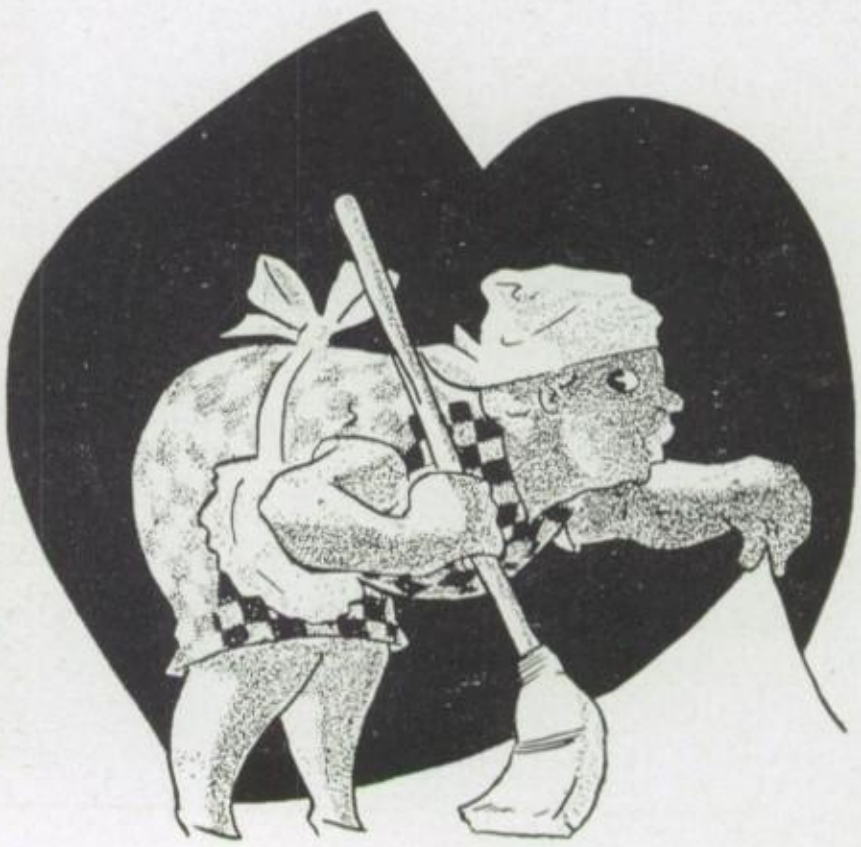
The Service Clubs



MORTON COUNCIL

If tradition and service were the only measure of a club's worth to the school, few persons would attempt to dispute the Morton Council's place near the top. On a record extending more than sixteen years into the past, council members reflect with pride. Past laurels are not as important to the Council as the work that must be accomplished in the future, however. Thus with eyes toward the future, Council members shape today's plans for the betterment of our school. The Four C's (clean living, clean speech, clean scholarship, and clean sportsmanship) campaign is typical of their efforts.

Certain chores in school are automatically assumed by the Council. Ushering at assemblies is one heritage. Next in line is their annual "Old Clothes" Assembly, to aid needy students. Climaxing the year's activities is the Father and Son Banquet.

MORTON JR. COUNCIL

Interesting meeting?

Permit us to introduce you to the Morton Council's little brother, Junior Council. As it must, to all Morton Council members graduation time arrives, leaving behind a club seriously depleted of members. Where will the new members familiar with the Senior Council's ideals and work come from? The Junior Council, naturally. We may consider the Junior Council a sort of training school, a school where underclassmen are imbued with the tradition and achievements of Council work. Regular meetings follow the same lines as the Senior Council. Though meeting on different days, the two organizations pursue the same activities. The Junior Council not only provides ushers for assemblies but co-operates in presenting the welfare assembly. Without a doubt the good fellowship shown at the Father and Son Banquet marks one of the highlights of the club's work for the year.

Fall—The season began with a chocolate social at which girls became acquainted over their cups of cocoa—that is until it was all gone. Then it was replaced with tea.

Winter—Xmas baskets, baby clothes, and scrapbooks kept the girls at work for weeks.

Spring—Yards and yards of cellophane, bottles of glue, and scissors furnished the background for the coming of Ribbon Week which began on St. Pat's day. Proceeds from this social service work aid the Personnel Bureau.

RED CROSS

Things started happening when Morton's Red Cross began choosing members from Advisory classes. The motive was simply to familiarize all the students of Morton with the objectives of the Red Cross. Elected members attended weekly meetings, or more appropriate to say, "class." Practical information garnered by the delegates is duly delivered to the advisory group. In case you have forgotten, remember how your delegate spent a considerable portion of the period leading a discussion on timely topics, such as fire prevention, safety in the home, and even first aid? The delegate had apparently an inexhaustible supply of data on hand. Perhaps he forgot to tell you the Council had been divided into committees. Each one assigned a certain topic for future meetings. For example, there was first aid, publicity, accident prevention, and even a foreign correspondence committee—in short, every phase of Red Cross work is represented.

If by chance the search for the now legendary little yellow basket is still in progress, we can think of no better place to investigate than the Lost and Found Room. Mislaid school paraphernalia, wearing apparel, and odds and ends by the score cram the room. If absent mindedness is the direct result of too much mental gymnastics, one glance at the quantity of lost property may convince any skeptic that some Mortonites do use their brain cells. When lost articles are turned in, they are carefully recorded in a ledger. If the owner calls, his claims are carefully checked and his property returned.

Naturally there is another side to the club's activities. We hardly expect a group of active girls to remain in their curiosity shop worrying about other students' losses. Why, in the past year they visited Hydrox Ice Cream Company, attended some real plays, and had a party whenever the occasion arose. Perhaps you've seen some girls wearing tiny gold pins shaped like an open book. Well, now you know what the Elanef stands for.

OPERATORS' CLUB

Reeling off Mrs. Wiggs

Modern education is in the dark. No, this isn't a slam against our teachers, only a statement about modern trends in education. Most Mortonites are aware that they have seen quite a few educational films. Modern schools were quick to recognize the value of motion pictures as a teaching supplement. Naturally, someone must run the intricate projection machines, so the Operators' Club came into being. About forty boys are available every hour of the day to run or "operate" the movies for their assigned classrooms. Membership in the club is rather exclusive. Only responsible, cool-headed boys are permitted to operate the expensive projectors. Before the boys become operators, they must demonstrate satisfactorily their ability to run both sound and silent machines, and be able to cope with unexpected difficulties in the line of duty.

Any operator can display with a certain justifiable pride the distinctive pin of the club. It signifies the part their organization is playing in the development of the ultra-modern school of tomorrow, a school in which the motion pictures may largely supplement the prosaic, unimaginative text book of today.

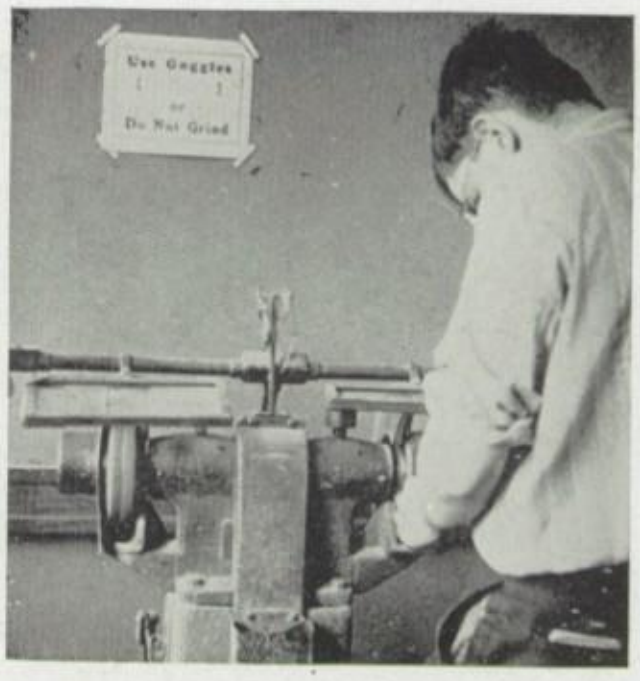
CIRCULATION STAFF

"May I have your attention for one moment?" All conversation in any A. P. class is instantly hushed; the students gaze at the newcomer. It's Morton's version of the colonial Town Crier, a member of the Circulation Staff. His tidings are varied and many. Perhaps there is a basketball game, a swimming meet, or a Friday social in the offing. Our minds are soon at ease. It's a baseball game: Morton vs. Podunk High next Friday. With the dispatch duly delivered, the circulator leaves. There are others that must be informed in the short period of thirty minutes.

Few of us realize that an organization, appropriately called the Circulation Staff, exists solely for publicizing important events in A. P. classes. As an added attraction, the boys are a walking ticket agency. Tickets for most athletic events or assemblies are readily procured from Mr. Green's perambulating box offices. Occasionally the boys, like Horatius at the bridge, take possession of a few doors at assemblies to keep people out or in as the circumstances dictate. And what would be a fitting historical incident to symbolize the Staff's work? How about "A Message to Garcia?"—ouch!

JUNIOR SAFETY COUNCIL

"Make Morton a safer place" sums up the Junior Safety Council's mission in a single sentence. Though organized as a group to promote precautionary measures against any danger that may be lurking within the walls of Morton, the Council is actually helping our community as well as the school. You may wonder how, but the answer is quite simple. Every student that enters Morton soon realizes the many precautions that have been taken to protect him from danger. A shop student about to work on a potentially dangerous machine may hesitate, then recheck his projected task when his eye falls on some brightly-colored warning poster placed in the shop by the Safety Council. In the laboratories it is the same story. Chemistry and physics students are reminded by posters that accidents can happen in a moment of carelessness. Once a year the Council promotes a school-wide safety campaign as a gentle reminder that no one leads a charmed life; everyone must take precautions. With these lessons of safety firmly implanted in the minds of Mortonites, the knowledge is practiced not only in school but in the whole community. It is all as simple as A B C . . . Always Be Careful!



Safety in the shops

JUNIOR-SENIOR GIRLS' CLUB

The Jr.-Sr. Girls' Club was the first club organized at Morton. Boys, who said girls are slow on the uptake?

This is a service club which really lives up to its name, thanks to Miss Prutsman, the advisor. She and the club members cooperate with many other clubs in doing social and service work.

Part of the fall season was spent preparing for the annual Mother-Daughter Banquet. Judging from snaps taken of the crowd, everybody was happy. Smiling faces proved the evening to be a success.

Exemplifying the club's helpfulness at Morton was the "Swing Along" party given for freshman girls. Their aim was to make friends of the newcomers instead of peering down at them as tradition would have upper classmen do. It worked! A number of "Freshies" now have "big sisters" in some junior or senior girl.

Best wishes to a very sweet girl.
May your every wish come true.
Doris Rezek

FROSH-SOPH GIRLS' CLUB

The Frosh-Soph Girls' Club may quite appropriately be called the junior edition of a big sister club, namely, the Junior-Senior Girls' Club. This club is under the leadership of Miss Danovsky.

At Christmas time service really was the by-word at meetings, for contributions were made to Christmas baskets of the welfare department, and lovely favors were sent to hospitals.

It is not hard to determine the requirements for eligibility, for as the name implies, all freshman and sophomore girls may join the club's ranks.

In the way of a contribution of time, labor, and efforts to the Serpentine Swing, the girls lent their lily-white hands in decorating the halls for the dance.

The Mars Candy Company was the desti-Nation of an educational tour which satisfied the sweet teeth of about twenty-five girls because they were given sample candy bars.

BOOSTER CLUB

A club to encourage pep in athletics—that's the Booster Club. This year's enrollment reached the hundred mark, and it certainly sounds like many more than that when they get together, especially during a meeting after a nip-and-tuck basketball game. I wonder why we don't choose our referees from the ranks of these loyal Boosters. My, what championships we could win!

Peppy Mortonites such as these need a jolly fellow to guide them. They surely have just such a person in "Pop" Green.

The games at York and Champaign, had a surprising number of Boosters in attendance considering how far away these two towns are from Morton. At Champaign the cheer leaders added to the school spirit.

Watch for the enthusiasts at the next game. If they cheer extra loudly, it's a dollar to a doughnut that they're loyal members of this school-spirited body—namely, the Boosters.

LATIN CLUB

"Vivit in Aeternum," "It flourishes forever," is the motto of the Latin Club, which, during the year has been engaged in various activities. At Christmas they had a Roman Saturnalia where "Pyramus and Thisbe," one of Shakespeare's plays, was pantomimed by the members. Other ventures into the drama field were the play "Dido, the Phoenician Queen," a tragedy from Virgil's "Aeneid" and two movies, "Dido," and "Hades, Abode of the Dead."

Near the end of the year, the young Romans held their annual banquet and spectaculum, and when school was out, they had their yearly picnic to the Indiana Dunes.

The club's officers and the sponsor, Miss Viehoff, expressed the club's aims in these words: "to prove the living force of Latin and to awaken the student to the very real entertainment value of the classics."

Through the efforts of the Latin Club, Morton has shown her intellectual capacity and ability to some extent. It is hoped that the Latin Club, which has made history here at Morton, will continue to take the initiative and lead Morton's club activity field.

Surrealism on the stage

Exhibiting memoirs of France

FRENCH CLUB

This club has been one of Morton's leading activities for so many years that it is now looked upon as one of the old reliables. The aims and purposes of the French Club are quite similar to those of the Spanish Club. Both clubs acquaint the students with the customs, habits, and costumes of the native country.

Miss Modini is the faculty advisor who keeps "Le Club Francaise" on its toes, so to speak. Being a club member is an advantage and an asset to any student of French. We can see why it is an asset by learning what the club's activities are.

The club meets once every two weeks. The main occupation at the meetings are the reading of French papers, singing of French songs, and discussion of current events in France and Europe.

This year the French Club had an exhibit which was prepared with the help and materials of a few teachers who had visited France and brought back souvenirs. Among the beautiful articles on display were fans, pictures, books, and coiffures which were originally French.

SPANISH CLUB

Lunch at La Hacienda

Although the study of a language is interesting enough, the class periods aren't long enough to give one much more than a practical knowledge of the people, land, and customs. Stimulating interest in Spanish life is the purpose of Miss Vrba's Spanish Club.

Club meetings are much fun because the club members are very active. They see Mexican slides, read letters from a man who is traveling in Mexico and South America, and then discuss these things. They sing Spanish songs and read Mexican literature.

During the past season the club took a trip to a little Spanish tea room for dinner. There was plenty of Spanish atmosphere, food, and music. Miss Vrba thinks tortillas are good, but certain club members disagree with her heartily.

Then, too, the club is an asset in educating all Mortonites about Spanish life and literature. They planned an exhibit which was shown in room 238. The exhibit proved to be well worth the time and effort spent, for it was the talk of the school for a few days. Yes, this is a club that actually gets things done.

SARMATIA CLUB

The Sarmatia, another one of the older clubs at Morton, was reorganized in January of this year. The meetings were held on the second and fourth Monday of each month.

The aim, according to Mr. Drechney, the club's advisor, is four-fold: the first, to give students facilities to use the Polish language; the second, to acquaint them with Polish literature of the past and present; the third, to discuss and study historically the customs, traditions, and ideals of the racial group; and last, to attempt to associate that information with the citizens of Polish descent in this country.

The programs given during the meetings are largely of a literary nature. They recite poetry in the native tongue, discuss the works of leading Polish authors, and, in general, build up a good background of Polish culture. Then too, they study the current events of Europe as related to Poland.

A membership drive was made and results were well worth the efforts spent. Now the crowd of young Sarmatians is more enthusiastic than it has been in years. For proof of this, attend one of the meetings and see for yourself.

CZECH CLUB

The Czech Club is one of the largest and most active clubs.

The foremost awards of the year for participation in activities are trips to Europe and San Francisco which go to a few deserving boys and girls. Mr. Mikula chaperoned this year's group as usual.

There was an annual dance attended by the usual crowd; and you may think that this is enough for any one club to be doing, but no, there is an additional whirl of outings, movies, and excursions in addition.

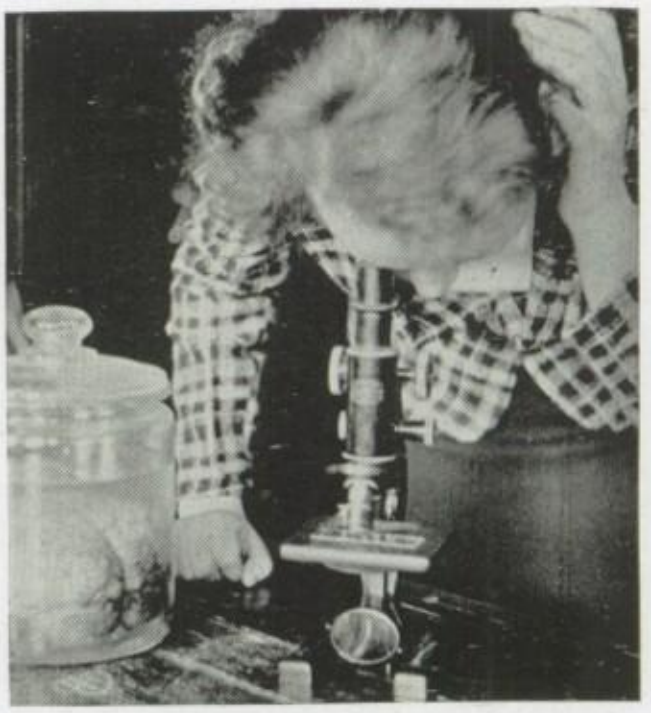
WEATHER CLUB

"We shall do something about the weather rather than talk about it," decided a group of Morton science students many years ago. Well, here is the Weather Club to prove those students knew what they were talking about. The topic of weather has been the buff of innumerable jokes and endless superstitions. One of the chief purposes of the club is correcting some of these erroneous beliefs. With statistics and facts any member will gladly prove that meteorology is a science of immense importance. Farmers, airlines, ships, and even your Sunday picnic must heed the weather man's predictions or risk the loss of money and time.

As a service to Morton the Weather Club posts the daily temperature reports on a chart on the fourth floor. The readings are provided by the club's own observatory in Cicero. Up to the minute weather maps are drawn by club members with data from the Chicago Weather Bureau. These maps are posted for all to see. Other phases of the club's activities are publishing a little newspaper and competing in an annual statewide science club competition. As a field trip the club usually visits the weather bureau station at the University of Chicago.

BIOLOGY CLUB



Do bugs play tag?

It would seem appropriate to call the Biology Club a back-to-nature movement. In this age of machines, Mother Nature is regarded as a curiosity—something embalmed in text books or displayed only in museums.

Dame Nature, believe it or not all you city dwellers, is as real as ever. Flowers still bloom; the birds still sing, and trees never fail to renew their coats of green leaves. Everything in nature seems so commonplace that we are indifferent to it. Back-to-nature, why not? When a group of biology students finds a certain pleasure in nature where others fail to, it is an achievement.

School merely serves as a headquarters for the Biology Club. When conditions do not favor field trips, club meetings, under the guidance of Mr. Hitch, serve as an excellent source of information for members interested in some particular field of biology.

The club maintains a window display of biological specimens up on the fourth floor. Other activities include the publication of Biology News, a little six page illustrated newsletter. In May several club members entered projects in the State Junior Academy of Science competition; they made quite a showing.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

Ready for field trip.

Ah, there is something in the air. On the second thought (or sniff) we discover the Chemistry Club is meeting with Mr. Meuhl! A peep through the fog reveals a group of young chemists watching an intriguing experiment, one of the phases of the club's activities. It has been a busy year for the members. In the past months they have visited government chemical laboratories, industrial plants, and pumping stations. In May the Chem Club made a strictly business trip to Springfield to participate in a state-wide science competition among high schools. They modestly admitted taking home a large share of the prizes as in past years. Practically every member contributed something to the prize winning exhibits. Projects ranged from model blast furnaces to ways and means of making nail polish. Posters, collodial demonstrations, and glass blowing were other very practical applications of modern chemistry.

It is the aim of the Chemistry Club to make a definite contribution to our school. You may have noticed the large periodic table of elements in room 405. Well, a few years ago the Chem Club made it; then they donated it to the school—after winning first prize with it.

PHYSICS CLUB

"We hate to brag," said a physics club member, "but do you know the Morton Physics Club has won first place in the Junior Academy of Science competition for the past six years?"

This sounded interesting, but sure enough, there in a cabinet in the physics laboratory were six silver cups, first prizes in a state-wide competition among high school science clubs. Every year when spring rolls around, the Physics Club members are busy building very complicated scientific apparatus. Cosmic ray counters, telescopes, X-ray machines, and radios are just a few of the devices that have been built. They actually work, too, like their prototypes in big scientific institutions.

Mr. Barr, the genial adviser, will proudly tell you about some of the club's alumni, who are now aviators, chemists,and meteorologists. Today's young scientists present a weekly program in which they demonstrate everything from how to grind a telescope mirror to generating artificial lightning. When the club members are not occupied with the building of something extra-special for science, you'll find them visiting the Science Museum or possibly some famous scientific laboratory. By the way, they are rearranging their trophies so that a few more cups can be crammed in.

RADIO CLUB

"Calling CQ, Calling CQ. . . . come in W9222." Unless you're familiar with the jargon of radio amateurs, it may as well be Greek to you. Few of us realize the tremendous popularity of amateur radio, that is sending and receiving with your private radio station. There are very stringent examinations to pass before Uncle Sam gives you license to disturb the ether. Morse code must be learned, the theory of radio known comprehensively. The Radio Club steps into the picture at this point. Any interested student at Morton may learn the fundamentals of radio and the all important code under the guidance of a pioneer in radio, Mr. D. L. Barr. Ambitious plans are being made for building their own station here in Morton. While this plan is worked upon, the members are ready to perform any task in school where a radio is involved. One of the members built an amplifying phonograph for the P. E. department. Another time a teacher wanted his class to hear a very important program. The Radio Club supplied him with a radio. Club members aid physics classes by demonstrating and lecturing on radio.

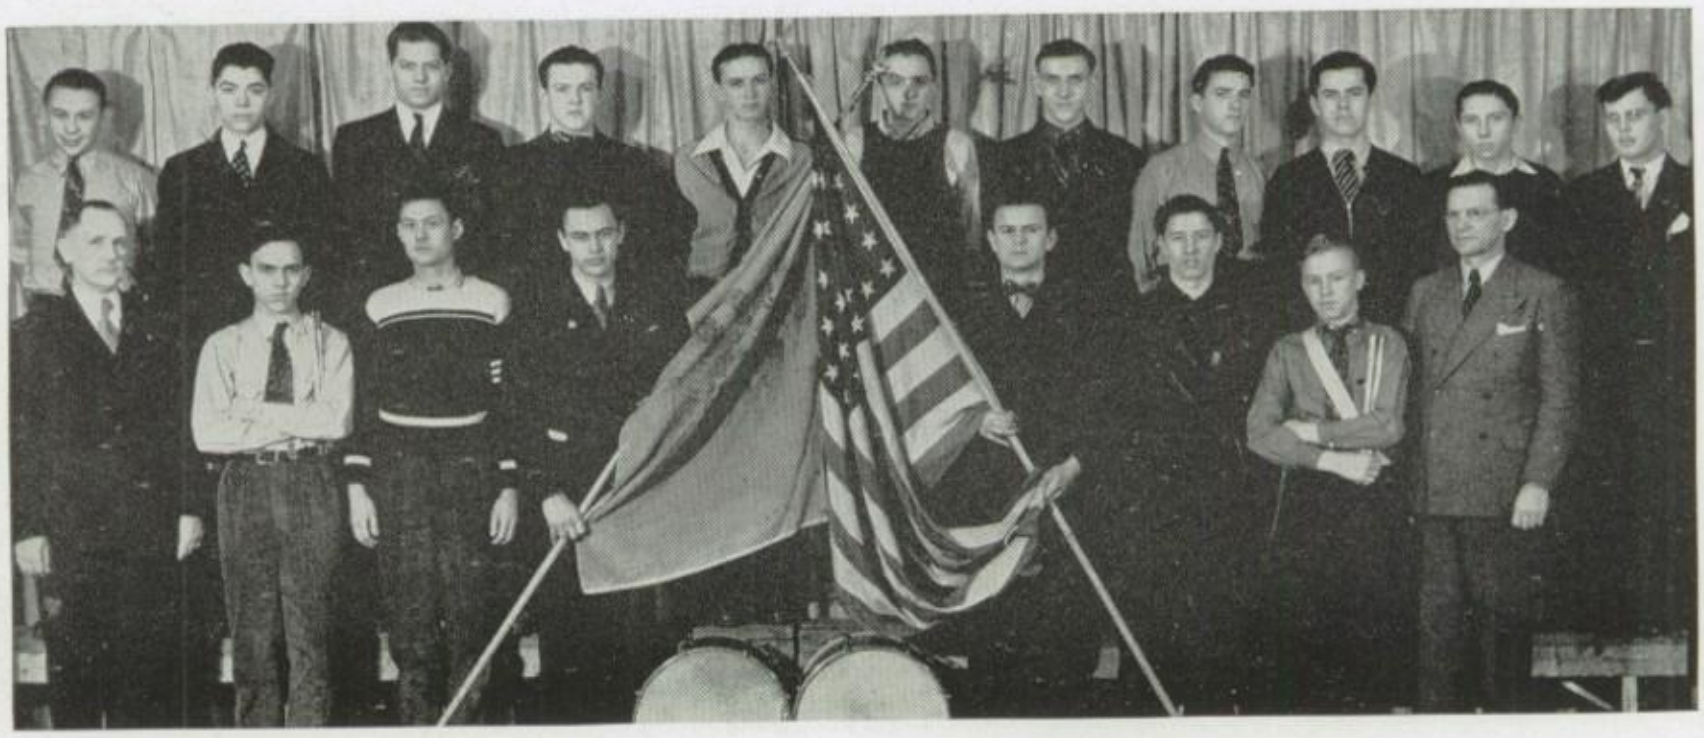
Be prepared!

Believe it or not, Morton High has its own private army, more than a half hundred strong. Like its model, the regular federal Citizen's Military Training Camp, Morton's unit emphasizes the discipline, self-reliance, and leadership achieved by military training. The objective of this organization is simply familiarizing the boys of Morton with the military routine that is to be expected when they enroll for camp during the summer.

With their preliminary training in back of them, the boys will leave for camp in July for a month packed with things military. Drilling, marching, and shooting. It is not all work though; the boys always find time for a friendly game of baseball or a splash in nearby Lake Michigan. And the meals? Well, complaints are astonishingly few. (P.S. Uncle Sam pays for everything.)

Since an army is not all infantry, Morton may soon boast a cavalry unit. Right now some of the cavalry boys are in training at the Emmet Stables in Hinsdale. The infantry, the back bone of the army, rehearses out on the "desert", alias the athletic field—maybe they want to join the Foreign Legion—.



CREATIVE WRITING CLUB

Dramatizing original plays

If a certain species of Nymenopterous insects (commonly known as bees) think that they possess the reputation of being industrious, they should have witnessed the innumerable activities of the Creative Writing Clubs during the past year; for the consummated accomplishments of these ingenious writers smacked the money makers' renown to atoms.

Revising an operetta and writing a movie were the highlights of the year's literary projects; but the composing of assembly scripts, writing the annual publicity for the Morton Scholarship League, constructively criticizing novels, short stories, essays, and poetry, entering contests all contributed invaluably to the club's program.

Guest speakers, trips to movies, plays, and a journey to see the Tribune presses provided the enthusiastic writers with a wealth of material for their literary study.

Last, but definitely not least, the club held its popular annual literary contest. A short story, essay, or poem from any student of Morton was eligible: Miss Walker, Miss Falls, and Miss Hawks judged these divisions, respectively.

Harry Kanikula won the short story prize, Fernanda Marcovini the poetry award, and Violet Jacobs the essay decision. These pupils were given books as their rewards.

SOCIAL STUDIES CLUB

"Why, we're one of the most active clubs in school," replied one of the Social Studies Society advisors when asked what activities the club had. We were slightly skeptical until we found out for ourselves. A glance at the society's calendar was most revealing. Last November, for example, the society conducted a mock Congressional election. A month later the cry was "On to Washington!" for the society's annual pilgrimage to the Nation's Capital. Only a short time ago they were off again—this time it was Springfield, Illinois. On those occasions when they happen to be in town, field trips are made to points of interest in Chicago and vicinity. When it is meeting time, the programs are concerned with social problems of the nation, and those of our own school.

DOTS AND DASHES

Demonstrating stenotypy

Democracy is the keynote of the Dots and Dashes Club, for all third year students of shorthand are members. Two board members are elected from each class, and it is in this body that plans in which all club members participate are made. Miss Deal and Miss Lambert are just girls at the meetings, always ready, willing, and able to help.

The practical purpose of this club is to acquaint its members with business organizations and their functions. The first trip was made to the Bell Telephone Company. One girl was surprised to learn that so many intricate operations take place to get the operator at all hours. The A. B. Dick Company helped acquaint these future stenos with mimeographs and duplication machines on a later tour.

READING CLUB

At long last we have words to say of Morton's only belle-lettres club; words that will correct an erroneous impression of the club. It is not a conclave of book-worms; you know, those bespeckled creatures that eat up books merely to impress the less literate. It is a group of lads and lassies who find a certain pleasure in things literary. Meeting time is not necessarily reading time, although short stories, some essays, or a dab of poetry provides the bulk of material, the club's impromptu theater guild contribute their art for the "cause".

Every member is in charge of one meeting. To them falls the task of finding the material, then selecting other members for a command performance.

And what other activities are there? Well, how about those jaunts to the LaGrange Sunday Evening Club, or that Christmas party, or if you haven't forgotten so soon, Book Week? You remember in November every library in school had an elaborate display of new and timely books. The collection of old, unique books in the main trophy case was the feature of Book Week. Here is the club responsible for it.

FUTURE CRAFTSMEN

Modern industry is entering a new era, an era that demands of industry, machinery to produce commodities with precision and speed undreamed a few short years ago. Industry, as never before, seeks trained men capable of handling the more complex machines—men that have superior training and ability—craftsmen in every sense. The link between industry and the school is filled rather effectively by the Future Craftsmen organization. Outstanding shop students are given recognition for their good work by being accepted as members only with the approval of their teachers and the recommendation of good grades.

All members are pledged to uphold the eleven basic rules of the shop which are the objectives of the club: "1. Be clean and orderly. 2. Respect the property of others. 3. Always follow instructions carefully. 4. Accomplish something every day. 5. Work from bell to bell. 6. Work well with others. 7. Promote cooperation between school and industry. 8. Add incentive by recognizing the accomplishments of others. 9. Develop personality. 10. Develop idealism of responsibility and pride in the life work of members. 11. Be of service to the school and community." The Future Craftsmen cooperate in these ideals with other chapters of the organization all over the country.

PHOTO CLUB

Gone are the days when people actually posed for their photographs. Modern camera technique demands naturalness and unique angle shots before the conesseuers of the camera will click the shutter. Of late you may have had the experience of gazing into the leering glass eye of a candid camera when least expected. In and around our school chances are that these "shutterbugs" on the loose are members of Morton's newest and rather unique club, the Photo Club. Every Friday these devotees of the camera meet in their own private studio with Mr. Bedrava. It may alarm you to hear a member tell one of his colleagues how he shot so-and-so with an F4.5 at twenty feet. Never mind the police, it's only the gory technical detail of some candid camera escapade. Over in one corner of the room are facilities for developing and printing film, a very good reason for joining the club. We can say without fear of contradiction that the Photo Club is a service organization. Many of the pictures in this Annual are the results of the club's photography contest for best snapshots of student life. Well, camera fans, you missed a platinum opportunity if you failed to join the Photo Club.

CARTOON CLUB

What is so rare as a student that would actually spend his free time during advisory period in a class other than his advisory group that gives absolutely no credits, no grades, nothing in fact but a very special training not offered in the regular curricula?

You have a right to be skeptical, but we assure you such persons do exist. We hope by this time you realize the Cartoon Club is more of a class than a typical club. The members, or more appropriately cartoonists, assemble each Wednesday A. P. for the invaluable course offered by Miss Stevenson. In "class" their work is carefully criticized by the advisor and the severest critics of all, fellow classmates. Has the club achieved any high distinction? Consider then, who some of the ex-members are and the success they achieved. Several important Chicago newspapers have ex-members on their staffs: Kidd of the Tribune, Sixta of the Times, and Ducat of the Examiner.

Meanwhile, the club bides its time making posters and decorations for school events, getting in trim perhaps for greater things.

CRAFTS CLUB

A new club made its debut quite recently. The Crafts Club, as its constitution will reveal, proposes "to give members an opportunity to create and execute original design . . "

In a club predominantly female, feminine accessories are apparently the order of the day. With bits of suede leather the girls have made purses, hats, belts, gloves, and even chic boleroes.

A shopping committee procures the necessary materials for the club. The market basket may include wooden beads for belts and bracelets, or gayly colored fiber for some girl's sandals or beach hat.

Like the Muse of art, Miss Sinclair hovers about her artistic protegees, contributing advice on the finer points of craftsmanship. Her sole desire is that members exercise good taste in design and color, and most of all finish every project begun. Outside of that, meetings are characterized by their friendly, informal manner—like a sewing circle perhaps. The members have made jaunts to points of artistic interest; that is, the American Academy of Art, the Art Institute, and appropriately enough, fashion shows in some of the larger loop department stores.

VARSITY FOOTBALL

The varsity were not very successful this year, but their spirit was "tops". Though they finished last in the Suburban League, they out-played their opponents in most of their games. Coach Pavlinek said this was the best team that he had had in the past few years.

The team varied through the year due to injuries. Bill Matt held the center position until he was hurt in the Evanston game. Chuck Naus substituted for the remaining games. Allen Higgins retained his position at left end, and Frank Drazan was right end. Harold Fugate and George Sperlik shared left tackle, and Ray Langner and Roy Steblay were right tackles. George Sperlik took Ed Wojciechowski's place at left guard when Ed hurt his knee. John Cejnar played the first part of the season at tackle but the rest of the season at right guard. Leonard Rut was right guard at the first of the season. Dick and Bill Albaugh played at quarter, Dick playing regular. Bill Raese and Ken Polivka shared the fullback position, with Raese playing halfback frequently. Bob Meyer, Dan Bonaguidi, and Wally Anderson shared the halfback positions.

At Downers Grove during the last minutes of play, R. Albaugh caught a pass from W. Albaugh on the two yard line, falling just short of the goal line. The game ended here, leaving the "Mustangs" on the short end of a 7-6 score.

During the first part of the LaGrange game, the varsity held LaGrange; but the second half was played in Morton territory with Morton going into their foes' territory but once. The score was 19-6 with LaGrange on top. Our first Suburban League game was with Highland Park. Again Lady Luck was against the team, for at the end of the game they were one foot short of a touchdown, third down coming up. Although the varsity lost, 12-6, they looked much better than they did at LaGrange.

At Proviso the varsity played their first night game. On the opening kickoff Al Miller ran 75 yards for a Proviso touchdown. Morton was never able to come from behind the thirteen points of their opponents.

Morton scored twice against New Trier but lost, 28-13 in a wide open game. Laterals, double-laterals, and reverses, were employed by both teams to good advantage.

For three quarters the varsity was able to hold off Oak Park, but lost, 21-0, in the last quarter. Not only were they fighting on even terms with Oak Park, but at one time it looked as if they would go ahead.

Morton lost to Evanston, 12-0, before the Homecoming crowd, the largest of the year. The game was a defensive one because of the muddy field.

Failing to take advantage of their scoring opportunities, Morton lost their final game to Waukegan, 13-0, and finished the season without a victory, but that fighting spirit and clean sportsmanship, noted on Morton teams, was present throughout the season.

JR. VARSITY FOOTBALL

As far as statistics are concerned, Morton's Junior Varsity gridders were the best football team of 1938. They have the distinction of winning the only game during the season. This lone victory came when the locals battled their way to a 12-0 win over Evanston. Another unequalled feat was the holding of Proviso to a scoreless tie. Many boys received the experience necessary to represent the school on next year's Varsity squad.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

This year's team, one of the best in Morton's history, won twenty and lost four games. In doing so, they tied for first place in the Suburban League, became runner-up in the Regional tournament, won the Sectional tournament, and travelled to Champaign for the State finals.

George Waniata, Ed Parker, and Joe Hapac alternated at forward. Usually Ed Parker started at center then dropped back as a forward. George Dowd, Tom Soldat, and Bob Boehme substituted as centers. The guards were Ken Polivka, Bill Albaugh, and Arch Albaugh. Bob Boehme and Arch Albaugh played as forwards also, and Aldo Michi was used in every position.

Proviso was Morton's first Suburban League victim, losing to the Mustangs, 39-23. The scoring spurt by George Dowd and Ed Parker and the accurate passing by Arch Albaugh and Ken Polivka helped to make this win possible.

In the game at Highland Park, the outcome of which proved to be a story book finish, Bill Albaugh pulled a one-man finish to provide the margin to win 27-26.

The most heartbreaking game played this season was the one with Oak Park, which the Mustangs lost, 34-33. Bill Albaugh's last minute basket was rejected to the joy of the Villagers and dismay of the Mortonites. If Bill Albaugh's basket had counted, the Mustangs would have been victorious.

In the game against New Trier, Joe Hapac put everything he had in the final game of the regulation season, scoring fourteen points. The Mustangs held the Hilltoppers to four points in the last quarter, while they themselves scored seven points to win 34-31.

In the Regional tournament, the Maroons found trouble in beating the LaGrange quintet. Arch Albaugh tied the game with a basket in the closing minutes of play; and the game went into an overtime with Morton coming out on top, 33-31.

The desperate last-minute efforts of the Mustangs were not enough to break the two-point lead which Glenbard held to the finish to win 33-31.

Although the Mustangs lost in the Regional tourney, they were eligible for the Sectional tournament at Elgin, which they won by defeating Waterman, East Aurora, and Dundee, 1938 State Champ.

After winning in the Sectional, the Ziebellmen journeyed to Champaign for the State finals. Throughout the State all eyes were on the tournament to see what team would become victorious. The University of Illinois students picked Morton to win the State championship.

Morton's first game was against Lane of Chicago. Though Lane had a taller team than Morton the play was on an even level through most of the game; then the Mustangs displayed their offensive powers and won 42-37.

Disappointment came in the quarter finals when the Mustangs with Parker and Bill Albaugh on the bench with injuries, lost a heart breaker to Wood River. Though defeat came early in the State finals, many believe Morton has the best team in the State.

VARSITY BASEBALL

Morton has received much publicity because of its consistent winning baseball teams.

All the boys on the team but the catcher played for the American Legion team of Berwyn, which went far into the National Championship. Under the careful direction of Coach Fencl, the team finished first in the Suburban League. The highlights of the season were the perfect and no-hit games pitched by Ken Polivka.

Coach Fencl could not have asked for better material for his Suburban League Baseball champs. The whole team was better than the average high school team. The pitchers were Polivka, Benac, Rochowiak, and Meyer. The hurlers let their opponents have .879 runs per game, struck out 11.128 men per game, and 1.589 per inning. Buschalco and Paitl did the catching for the pitching staff.

The infield, one of the snappiest ever seen on the Morton field, consisted of Hirschberg and Parker alternating at first, Hapac at second, R. Albaugh at short, and Cooke at third.

A "sure fire" outfield was the only thing for a good baseball team, so the Morton players supplied it in the forms of Malecha, Ronovsky, Holec, W. Albaugh, Polivka, and Ziarko.

On the offensive the team furnished Ronovsky, Polivka, R. Albaugh, and Buschalco, who batted .452; .389; .383; and .375, respectively, for the season.

During Scholastic Week in Champaign Polivka, Ronovsky, and Cooke, who went down with the "M" Club, played with the varsity baseballers of the University of Illinois. The Coach was impressed by the brilliant batting of Ronovsky and the pitching of Polivka.

When Polivka pitched his first no-hit game, it was a perfect game with not one man reaching first base. The Oak Parkers were unable to cope with Polivka's amazing delivery. He fanned sixteen men, with only one Villager hitting out of the infield. Polivka's perfect game was almost spoiled twice. Once when he almost dropped a roller, and again when Hirschberg stabbed a sure hit. Ronovsky and Cooke performed in their usual way with the bat by taking batting honors for both teams.

Ken Polivka fanned fifteen Proviso men as he pitched his second no-hit game. Six men reached first by three walks, two errors, and one hit by a pitched ball. The closest thing to a hit was a roller in front of the plate by Blaha, the Proviso catcher. Both Paitl and Polivka hesitated in picking it up. Finally Polivka picked it up and threw it to first. Hirschberg dropped the ball, and Umpire Hamesfahr ruled the batter safe due to the first baseman's error.

In the only extra inning game Polivka struck out seventeen Proviso men. Ronovsky was the big man with the bat again and brought in the winning run with a hit. In the extra inning the Proviso batters went down with no runs, no hits, no errors, and no one left on base. For Morton, Buschalco started off with a single to center and stole second. R. Albaugh hit an infield grounder and Buschalco was caught off second while Albaugh reached second base. Hapac singled; R. Albaugh went to third. Ronovsky hit an infield grounder, and Hapac was put out at second. When the ball was thrown to first, Ronovsky was safe because the first baseman lost the base momentarily. R. Albaugh in the meantime crossed the plate for the winning run.

It has been said that this year's team is the best team in the Middle West, and so far has proven so by beating two Chicago teams. With players such as Polivka, Paitl, Parker, Hapac, R. Albaugh, W. Albaugh, Holec, Goralski, Ronovsky, Parpet, and an able coach in the person of G. Fencl, the team is headed for another Suburban League title. Due to rainy weather the team has been unable to "show their stuff."

THE SOCCER TEAM

The Morton Soccermen for the fifth consecutive time won the Cook County Championship and had a strong hold on the mythical State title. They finished the season with eleven wins, one deadlock, and one loss.

In the first encounter with Oak Park, Pagni scored the winning goal in the last ten minutes of play, making the score 1-0. The second game with the Villagers brought the Booters their only loss by a score of 2-1.

The second Kelly game was a runaway for the Jahelka men. Four of the five goals were made by V. Bicicchi. Almost all of the play was in enemy territory. The score was 5-0.

In the second meet with Schurz, the Kickers ran into some unexpected competition. Schurz was seeking revenge after having lost to Morton once before, 3-0. This time V. Bicicchi scored the only goal of the game for Morton.

COACH JAHELKA, CO-CAPTAINS CHESLA and SRNENSKY.

The second Mooseheart encounter remained a tie until the last fifteen minutes of play, when Srnensky shot one past the Mooseheart goalie.

The leaders in scoring for the season were V. Bicicchi and E. Srnensky with twelve and ten goals respectively.

TRACK AND CROSS COUNTRY TEAMS

During the past two years the Morton track team has been doing a lot in the way of putting itself on the athletic map. Several of the runners on Coach Kudronovsky's teams were among the best ever to don a Morton suit. When you stop to consider that our school has fewer facilities for track than any of its competitors, the team's success is all the more remarkable.

The outstanding accomplishment of last season was the fine performance turned in by Bob Rehberg and Roy Brown in the Illinois high school track meet at Champaign. On that rainy Saturday afternoon last spring, Rehberg came in first in the half-mile to smash the state record.

So far this year the Maroon thin clads have again distinguished themselves in the track world by placing fourth in the All-State Competition at the Oak Park Relays. After holding on to second place until the last race, they were squeezed out by Oak Park and Evanston. Rehberg, Voight, Sawusch, and Brown gathered twenty-one points between them for fourth.

SWIMMING TEAM

This year Morton's two swimming teams went through an average season and came out with almost as many wins as losses. The varsity squad stayed even with the frosh-soph as far as records were concerned. Both teams came out victorious in four of the engagements while they dropped six to the opposition. The season started off well when both Morton teams took three meets in a row. Later on in the schedule the competition became stiffer and the splashers were slowed down a little.

Outstanding among the Varsity natators was Warren Kornick, who turned in first places consistently and finished third best among Suburban League back strokers. Another good performer for the upperclassmen was Captain Dvorak in the breast stroke. Until graduation in February, Wes Kochydid excellent work in the free style, and Cunningham, also a mid-year graduate, took good care of the fancy diving.

Captain Goding of the Frosh-Soph was the best free-styler in that division this season, while Tauchen helped out well in backstroke. F. J. Warga completed his third year as coach of the swimming teams.

BOXING

For the second time in that many years, Morton's boxers are wearing their crown as champions of northern Illinois high schools. By virtue of their overwhelming victory in the second annual Northern Illinois High School Boxing Tournament, they retain undisputed claim to the title. Coach Jahelka, to whom much of the credit is due for the production of such a fine team, employed the same method as in former seasons for weeding out the hidden talent in Morton. This was the sponsoring of a huge intramural tournament, by means of which the cream of Morton's crop of pugilists was selected to represent the school in boxing.

After gathering together such a fine group of boxers, it was found that no other schools had the fortitude to accept the Maroon's challenge. In this way Morton's great record is a handicap since there is a shortage of meets. Finally the Blue Island team decided to risk an encounter with Coach Jahelka's proteges, but our boxers were robbed of the opportunity of meeting the south siders by the flu epidemic. Although repeated attempts were made to schedule meets, the regular season ended without Morton's having had a single encounter with another school.

Perhaps it was because of this lack of an outlet for their pugilistic energy that the Maroons made such an excellent showing in the northern Illinois tournament. Ten of our twelve entrants reached the finals, and Morton took five of the eight final bouts. Hinsdale took two fights for second place, while Grant copped the remaining battle for third. The five newly crowned Morton champs were Solawetz in the 95 pound division; Hardy, last year's 95 pound champ, now at 105; Ausili, 125 lbs.; Bushbach, 145 lbs.; and Klimes, 155 lbs. This showing was better than that made in the 1938 tournament, when the Maroons took only three of the eight final fights. Prospects for next year's team are good, since many of this season's boxers will return. Let's hope they can keep up the good work.

TENNIS

Morton's tennis team, under the tutorship of Coach McBurney, lost only one match this season. In the past few years Morton has had two representatives in the State tennis tourney. In 1933 Ralph Dilly and in 1936 George Steidl were the two who went as Morton Candidates. Though Morton was unable to send anyone to State tourney, Riedell and Jerik defeated Oak Park's doubles team who were in the State Championships.

Number one tennis man was Purvis; number two, Kratky; and number three, Allen. Riedell and Jerik were the number one doubles team while Allen and Vasek, Axen and Buividas paired off for two and three respectively.

WRESTLING

This season saw the reestablishment at Morton of a sport which had been neglected for several years. Since 1936 the school had not been represented in the field of wrestling, but this year a new team was recruited. The sport is now well on the way to its former popularity. Under the direction of Coach Kovanic, a new member of the faculty, quite a number of would-be matmen are working out and training for next year's schedule. This year there was one meet held with Elgin at which the local bone-crushers were able to grunt and groan their way to a victory. Interest in the sport of wrestling is on the increase, and there are several indications that next season the school will have a first-class aggregation of wrestlers.

GYM AND TUMBLING

Captain Phillips and Coach Kudrnovsky

One of the departments of athletics in which Morton always excels is tumbling. This is really a very difficult activity, and requires more skill and coordination of muscles than any other type of sport. Somersaults, handsprings, and many other feats are included in the repertoire of the tumblers. For practicing, they are split up into two groups, the sixth hour and the seventh hour classes, each of which elect their own captain.

The tumbling coach, O. J. Kudronovsky, is well fitted to school the tumblers in the various phases of the the sport. He himself is a former champion on the parallel bars and an all around excellent gymnast. Under his guidance several of the boys place high each year in the annual A. A. U. meet. This season several of Morton's last year champions are expected to repeat their good performance.

Although the tumblers do not participate in many interscholastic meets, they are always in demand for exhibitions at football and basketball games, and their efforts are always appreciated.

FROSH-SOPH AND FROSH FOOTBALL

This season our Frosh-Soph footballers followed the example of the Varsity and were unable to defeat or tie the opposition in any of their gridiron encounters. This lack of victories can be attributed to several causes, one of which was the lack of experience on the part of the underclassmen. Most of the players who saw action during the previous season had become ineligible by their advancement in school. As a result the work of the team was generally characterized by loose and jittery ball handling. On many occasions after the locals had maneuvered into a touchdown position, they would be robbed of the opportunity to score by a costly fumble. Added to the shortcomings of the Maroons was the fact that Suburban League competition was good this year in the first-and-second year division.

Another of Morton's numerous football groups is the freshman squad. Although this team is not organized on an interscholastic basis, it is important from the standpoint of what the future holds for football in the school. The members of the group are selected through the gym classes in a manner by which it is hoped to get the cream of the freshman crop. Those who perform the best on the intramural teams are the ones who are picked for the frosh squad. The purpose of the team is to give the first year players the experience which is needed to fit them into the regular frosh-soph line-up in the following year. This season the freshmen played one game with an eighth grade team from Berwyn grade schools.

Coach Fencl's underclassmen, though unable to defend their Suburban League title, finished in a tie for second with New Trier in the League race.

Captain Demkovich, the only regular from last year, looked unusually good this season. Kosner, an unheralded star, led the Fenclmen through the year with his brilliant offensive play. Strumillo did much of the pacing for the underclassmen. Hane did some fine defense work in the Waukegan game by holding their pivot man to no points in the last half.

With all this brilliant playing it was a little disappointing to the team to have so little support from the student body.

BOYS "M" CLUB

The Morton Varsity "M" Club is really an athletic honor society, since it is open only to those boys who have distinguished themselves in athletics by earning an "M". Letters can be earned in a great variety of sports which include football, basketball, baseball, track, swimming, soccer, tumbling, boxing, and the managership of a team. The club handles all of the business pertaining to the awarding of letters, and each year an assembly is held. At this time the certificates are passed out, and any other special awards are presented.

One of the most important of the clubs activities is the sponsoring of the annual Varsity "M" Club Hop. This social affair has practically established itself as a tradition since its beginning several years ago, and each spring it is eagerly looked forward to.

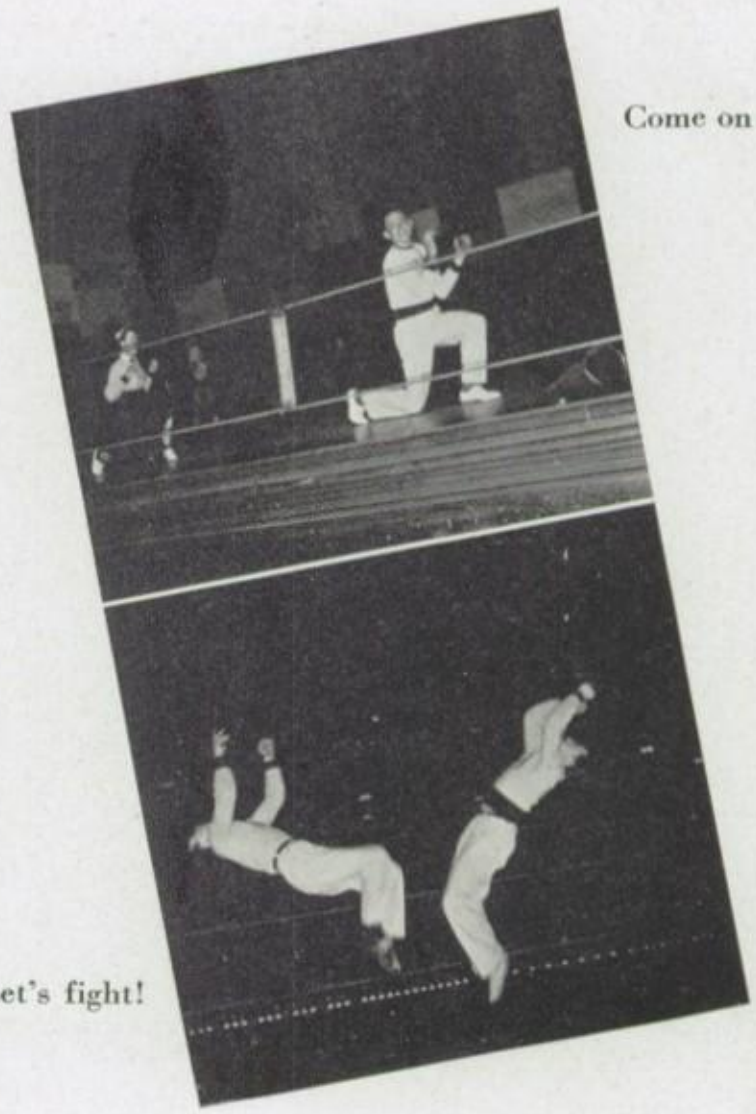
CHEER LEADERS

After witnessing the antics of Morton's cheerleaders it can be safely asserted that they are among the best in the state. The success of the basketball team can be partly accredited to the inspiration and encouragement which the players got from the spectators under the able direction of our cheerleaders. During the past school year a marked increase in attendance at the major athletic events has been noticed, and a corresponding increase has occurred in the volume and vigor with which the yells have been dispatched.

Morton's squad of cheerleaders is supplemented by a group of boys from the tumbling team. During each yell these tumblers punctuate the cheers of the crowd with a series of well executed handsprings and flips. Students from other schools usually marvel at this display of skill and agility, and Morton is almost unique in the use of tumblers at the football and basketball games.

The cheerleaders and tumblers are always faithful in their duties either at home or away. Cheerleading is really hard work, and they certainly deserve a lot of credit for the part they play in producing winning teams.



Come on team!

Let's fight!

The highlights in the sports' year were the winning of three championships and a trophy for placing fourth in the Oak Park Relays. The Maroon Cagers won the sectional basketball trophy by defeating Dundee, last year's champs. The boxing team won the trophy for the Northern Illinois Boxing Championships. For the fifth consecutive year, the soccer team won the Cook County title.

SENIOR GIRL SPORTS

What'll it be—golf, tennis, bowling, baseball, swimming, volleyball, kickball, basketball, soccer, or captainball? Every senior girl is confronted with this difficult question. Her choice is limited to four sports, one for each day of the week plus hygiene on the fifth day.

Tennis, golf, soccer, and kickball are played in the fall and early spring out on the "Gobi" Desert. Many a year, soccer has been played until the snow falls, but this never bothers our hale and hearty sportswomen. Soccer is very popular and intramural tournaments are held to determine the champs.

Kickball is another favorite, and the girls certainly enjoy playing it. Intramural competitions are staged every fall to find the best kickball team. The winning teams from each hour attend a kickball banquet at the end of the season.

Bowling seems to hold a fascination for the seniors, and almost every girl participates in it. The average scores vary from 130 down. The boys challenged the girls to a bowling tournament, and the results were: boys—2093, girls—1708, which wasn't bad at all.

The volleyball season starts as soon as it is too cold to go out-of-doors. Intramural teams for juniors, seniors, and sophomores were organized this year. Practices were held second, third, and ninth hours.

Tap dancing, social dancing, and folk dancing are held in the foyer. Sometimes boys and girls classes are combined. The tap dancing class on

Of course, swimming holds its usual attraction, and many of the girls swim even though it isn't required during the second semester. Most of the girls are on the swimming team or are life guards.

Baseball, tennis, and golf are tops in the spring. As soon as it gets warm enough to be comfortable outside, the girls take their drivers and rackets and begin to practice their strokes. Baseballs are seen flying around the field. Many a good batter and pitcher has been found among the girls.

By the time the girls are seniors "they sure know their stuff" as far as sports are concerned. We can be proud of our senior athletes.

JUNIORS

The junior girls, with their newly acquired upper-classmen title, start their sports year with kickball. At the end of the kickball season, each class sends the team that has won the most games to the kickball banquet where a good time is had by all.

Those preferring to play soccer are at liberty to do so. The girls often play as long as the weather permits and sometimes even after the first snow fall. Those particularly interested can, of course, go out for special soccer where the game is played in more detail.

Volleyball fills in before the beginning of the captainball and basketball season. It is usually played all the year round on the bad weather days.

Basketball is welcomed warmly, for it is a popular game with the girls. It isn't until the junior year that the girls are allowed to play basketball extensively. After playing in class the girls who are really interested go out for special basketball where they learn to play more skillfully.

Directly following basketball, volleyball steps in again.

As soon as spring fever undermines the gym class, baseball is introduced. This is another favorite with the girls since it is so well known.

Of course, each week a day is set aside for the girls to learn to swim. Those who already know how, have the opportunity to improve their form. Another day is used to advantage by attending movies concerning the health of the feet, skin, and body in general. Diets are discussed and sometimes menus are planned. Personal appearance and proper apparel are also frequently discussed. Through these talks the girls develop a certain amount of good taste in choosing school clothes, make-up, and hair styles.

A number of junior girls who excel in athletics are chosen to be junior leaders. This helps to prepare them to be better senior leaders the following year. These junior leaders prove themselves quite helpful to both the gym teachers and senior leaders.

Another weekly event is dancing. Sometimes rhythm is taught. Folk dancing and social dancing with the boys are considered a special treat. Occasionally the gym instructors give the juniors a sample of modern dance technique after which they suffer muscular aches and pains. The junior girls have quite a full schedule and are kept busy throughout the year.

Many freshmen are unfamiliar with sports before entering high school. Their gym schedule, naturally, is limited to only a few sports. During the year kickball, volleyball, captain-ball, and baseball are introduced to them. Two days each week are set aside for sports. The remainder of the week is given to swimming, dancing, and hygiene.

Each week the girls have an opportunity to either learn to swim or improve their form in swimming classes, to develop a sense of rhythm in dancing classes, and to become more aware of their personal appearance during the hygiene period.

Visual education finds its place in the hygiene classes where pictures on the diseases of the mouth, skin, and feet are shown. These movies are discussed, and some classes are required to keep note books.

THE G. A. A.

The G. A. A. certainly gave its members plenty of social life this year: play day at Wheaton, Illinois; G. A. A. banquet; hikes; and parties.

Play day was a real day for the ten girls chosen to go. They did everything from the Virginia Reel to playing ping pong. The girls met fellow athletes from all the suburban schools and played on teams with them. The day was "packed" with fun from beginning to end.

The banquet on April 7 was very unusual. The tables had candles on them, and it gave the teachers cafe a dark and mysterious air. The girls ate, sang, and watched an excellent program given by some of the club members.

CREATIVE DANCING

Quaintly enough the Morton Modern Dance Club practices in the boxing shed. Here, fifty-seven girls endeavor to improve their technique and compose their own dances under the supervision of the club advisors, Miss Zivi and Miss Novotny. The club is divided into two groups, the beginners who meet every day for one period and the advanced group who work two periods each day.

The majority of the girls who join do not have a great knowledge of the dance but are particularly interested in it. Symposiums, concerts, and lectures are attended, giving these terpsicorean enthusiasts a more intelligent attitude toward viewing exponents of the dance. To achieve grace and poise is the aim of most members.

LIFE GUARDS AND LIFE SAVING

Morton's mermaids are given the opportunity to enjoy their favorite sport three times a week in the life-saving class. Here, under the supervision of Miss Russell, these interested girls learn methods of rescuing drowning persons. Artificial respiration is practiced to perfection. If the girls prove themselves capable of passing the junior life saving test, they are given badges to wear on their swimming suits.

Morton is fortunate indeed to have a corps of pretty girls serving as life guards in the swimming pool on the days the girls turn out for their weekly swim. Since these girls are such fine swimmers, they are quite able to instruct other less fortunate girls. The girls are more than eager to help and really do a fine job.

Rescue
Holdin' hands?

This year, to further the aquatic careers of our mermaids, Miss Russell organized a new aquatic group of girls. It is known as the girls swimming team. This newly organized group started out with the well known "bang." The girls practiced diligently each week and as a result entered a girls' telegraphic swimming meet in which girls from all over the state participated. All in all these girls have done a thorough piece of work.

GIRLS "M" CLUB

One gym shoe and one street shoe, hair in braids, books gallore, and a very meek expression mean it is the "M" Club initiation time. Every girl in the club takes a prospective member in hand, and then the fun begins.

The Girls "M" Club is composed of girls who have earned a Morton "M" during their four years at school.

The requirements for an "M" are 1000 points earned by participation in different sports on intramural teams and the swimmer's test must be passed. Each intramural game means more points to the players. To play hard and clean is one of their foremost rules, and they certainly abide by it.

The "M" Club girls boost clean sportsmanship, clean living, and they support the school's teams. The girls attend all the games. Football, basketball, baseball, and swimming are their favorites when they play the part of spectators and boosters.

LEADERSHIP

With experience as their teacher and plenty of excellent advice from the P. E. faculty, the girls in leadership are well on their way to becoming gym teachers. Leadership is offered as a senior activity.

The leaders meet with the class they are assigned to every day. There are usually two girls to a class.

The duties of these future P. E. majors are to referee games, help coach the teams, see to it that teams are formed, and boost athletics in general.

They meet with the hygiene class when discussions are held on the games played during the week.

The seniors help the underclassmen as much as they possibly can. They offer them advice based on experience and also boost school spirit.

These girls live by training rules that they faithfully keep. Clean living and clean sportsmanship are the law as far as they are concerned, and they practise what they preach.

To try to state the value of this activity is impossible. It offers much to the girl taking it. She not only gets experience, but it is an excellent opportunity for her to find out if she has any ability as a teacher.

Dear Elmora:

Really, honey, I think you're one of the sweetest + nicest girls I know. We'll have to get together someday + I'll tell you all about — you know. I wish you'd come over this summer that an invitation. I do hope you get to hold an office again sometime. Don't let some of "those certain type of people" here ruin you — you're much to darling.

Love,
Blanche LaPlante

The last line of Blanche's statement is also the way I feel about you. I want to thank you for the fine work you did on the board + I expect you to do great things next year.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

The annual assembly of the Senior Honor Society is one that is awaited with much anticipation and hope by the upperclassmen. Those students who excel in scholarship, leadership, character, and service are chosen to become life members of the National Senior Honor Society. Ten per cent of the senior class may be admitted to the Honor Society and less than three per cent of the juniors may become members. The election committee who make up these lists are: C. Katek, L. C. E. Prucha, G. B. Reeve, A. C. Rigali, G. V. Robinson, and E. Uehren. Membership in the Society helps the students when they leave school and apply for positions.

This year the Society was quite active. Teas were given in order to get the members better acquainted. The club conducted several tours to interesting and educational places. Every year the group has a joint meeting with the Junior Honor Society.

The National Junior Honor Society is comprised of vitally interested young people whose scholastic, service, character, and leadership attainments have gained for them membership in the Society. The faculty committee which takes care of the election each fall consists of D. Denton, E. B. Gaarder, W. E. Harnish, chairman, and C. T. Logan.

The Society decided to recognize the oft forgotten freshman this year; they planned and created the freshman honor scrolls; a number of informal talks were given to enlighten the graduating people in the grammar schools on high school life. The deeds of merit quotations next to the main bulletin board and the famous quotation cards hanging in every classroom are also a part of the plan to make the students more scholastic minded.

The social side is not neglected as evidenced by the Annual Tea given by the Society for its members.

Senior Class of 1939

As it must to all seniors, graduation has beckoned to the class of '39. The end came one evening in June. Four exciting years of school life ended on this day. After our departure, we leave this brief history of our life and times.

The story began in 1935. A thousand or so bewildered freshmen, a few days out of the grades, rushed to the first class election. In their infinite wisdom they chose genial Jerry Mann, high keeper of the Frosh. Dick Purvis played second fiddle to him. Jean MacLaughlin was given the keys to the treasury, and Lois Zieber became secretary.

FACULTY ADVISORS

Miss J. Wentworth; Mr. L. M. Lang; Miss M. M. Hopp; Mr. H. J. White, Chairman.

The second year came; the sophomore class held another election. Fate decreed Dick Prosch, President. That mental luminary, Russ Allen, presided in the Vice-Presidency. Jack Kearney wielded a wicked pencil while Secretary; and George Bordenave controlled the exchequer.

The third year came up like a thunder bolt when again the students exercised their suffrage and sagaciously promoted Morton's number one humorist, George Bordenave, to class president. Ethel Horn broke the male monopoly in the Vice-Presidency. Jane Moran and Richard Dunlop carried every precinct and became Secretary and Treasurer respectively.

The fourth year presented a unique electorial situation. Because of election errors, there were two elections. Jerry Mann won the first time, and the petition for another election put the dark horse, genial Fred Sommers, into the presidency. The people who were chosen to work with him were Joe Hapac, Vice-President, a man of varied athletic talents, the secretary, a girl with a personality, was Frances Hall, and Phil Grove, the B. M. O. C. (big man on campus), was the Treasurer.

Now that it is all over, they look back on four years of study and social activities with pleasure and wish they could relive it again.

JUNIOR CLASS

The Class of 1940, more commonly known as the junior class, while it may never have been an outstanding group in any one field, may well be looked upon as a class that did many things well.

First in the line of achievements was the election of the first feminine junior class president in the school's history, Mildred Klepal.

Socially the junior class, as is its usual custom, carried on a successful junior-senior prom as well as sponsored two regular junior parties to which the senior class was also invited.

In the line of athletics the junior class was outstanding, its sportsmen being too numerous to mention. The junior class may also pride itself in the scholastic record of its members.

Lots of luck, heaps of happiness, loads of success, and gobs of good fortune to a very sweet girl whom I wish to know better in the future.

John Bishop

Dear Elnora,
Don't make love by the garden gate,
love is blind!
Love the neighbors and visit the animals.

Dear Elnora,

I wish everything possible to a girl
I have admired for her sweet personality.

Janet Belcher
